Special Training and Certification Programs:

The Law School offers two non-degree, non-credit bearing certificate programs – one in Legal Research Skills and the second in Legal Writing. We offer a Transactional Law Program and allow for practical experiences connected with certain courses such as Family Law and Trust & Estates. See more on the Transactional Law Program here: <http://www.bu.edu/law/prospective/jd/concentrations/transactional-law.shtml>. Students in the litigation clinics receive student attorney certification through the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court, Rule 3:03. Law students can obtain a Graduate Certificate in Women's Gender, & Studies through Boston University.

Is Moot Court a required activity? Yes

Moot Court Program Description:

All 1L students are required to participate in an intramural moot court program (Esdaile) during the spring as part of their required first year writing course. 2L students may participate in a voluntary intramural moot court competition in the fall (Stone); top advocates from that competition move on to an advanced intramural competition during the spring (Albers). Each intramural competition is run by a separate moot court board comprised of 3L students who participated

Do you have a pass/fail option? Yes

Second- and third-year students may elect to register for up to eight credits of non-required coursework on a Credit/No Credit/Honors basis after first year if the coursework qualifies. Any graded course of seminar is eligible for registration on a Credit/No Credit/Honors basis unless the instructor has listed the course as unavailable for such enrollment. Students wishing to take a graded course or seminar on a Credit/Non Credit/Honors basis must exercise that option by the end of the add/drop period for the semester in question.

Are students ranked in their class? Yes

If so, how often? After their first year and then following each semester

Will the school verify student grades? Yes

School's Verification Policy

The Registrar will provide only the following information concerning class ranks. a. Students who have completed the first year: Effective May 2013, the Registrar will inform the top five students in each section of their section ranks and provide cutoffs for the top 5%, 10%, 15%, 20%, 25%, and 33.3% of each section. b. Students who have completed the third semester (or the fourth semester, in the case of transfers) and beyond: For each class at the end of each semester, based on cumulative averages, the Registrar will inform the top fifteen students of their ranks and provide cutoffs for the top 5%, 10%, 15%, 20%, 25%, and 33.3% of the class. In addition, at the end of each academic year, based on the average earned during the most recent academic year, the Registrar will inform the top fifteen students of their ranks and provide cutoffs for the top 5%, 10%, 15%, 20%, 25% and 33.3% of the class.p> in moot court during their second year. Additionally, teams of 3L students are selected to represent the school at national and international intermural competitions such as the National Moot Court Competition and the Oxford IP Moot Court Competition. The school also sends teams to the ABA's Negotiation Competition in the fall, and its Client Counseling Competition in the spring. Negotiation and client counseling teams are selected through intramural competitions open to all students, run by a student Negotiation/Client Counseling board. We have a student-run mock trial board, which selects and coaches teams of students (all years) at intermural competitions - one in fall and one in spring. The exact competition varies year to year but this year was the ABA Employment Law mock trial competition and the Texas Young Lawyers Association trial competition.

Diversity

We participate in the Boston Lawyer's Group Minority Student Mentor Program and other career related programming the organization sponsors, including mock interviews, a job fair, a writing program, and networking opportunities. The CDO keeps track of and publicizes to students diversity scholarships, diversity fellowships and job fairs. We work closely with affinity groups who plan career-related programming including mock interview programs and resume reviews. We also have an Associate Director for Academic and Multicultural Affairs who works closely with diverse students.

Pro Bono

The Boston University School of Law Pro Bono Program is voluntary, comprised of dedicated and enthusiastic students who seek to use their developing legal skills to address some of the unmet legal needs in the Boston area, throughout the United States and around the world. Participating students will pledge to contribute a minimum of 35 hours (50 hours beginning with the Class of 2018) of pro bono work prior to their graduation. Participating LL.M. students pledge to contribute a minimum of 12 hours (18 hours for the Class of 2016) of pro bono work prior to their graduation. Pro Bono work, for the purposes of the BU Law program, must be unpaid and not for academic credit. To meet the goals of our program, student pro bono work should involve the rendering of meaningful law-related service to persons of limited means or to organizations that serve such persons or to other organizations dedicated to underrepresented groups and/or social issues. This can also include participating in activities providing information about justice, the law or the legal system to those who might not otherwise have such information. The Pro Bono Program is administered through the Office of Career Development and Public Service, "CDO." The role of the CDO is to advise students about the range of legal pro bono opportunities and identify and publicize pro bono opportunities. The CDO also tracks student pro bono hours and provides transcript notations regarding student pro bono participation. Each year an award is given to the graduating JD student who has completed the highest number of pro bono hours. The award is presented at one of the two yearly pro bono events. In addition, every year, students can also participate in subsidized national spring break service trips and alternative spring break to engage in pro bono work. In 2015, students traveled to Detroit, MI, Biloxi, MS, Harlingen, TX, New Orleans, LA, and Portland, ME for spring break service trips. Alternative spring break occurred in Boston, Chicago, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Miami, Newark, and New York. Our Pro Bono Program is one component of an active public interest community here at Boston University School of Law. Beginning at 1L orientation students are introduced to the many opportunities available in the public interest legal world.

Narrative

Boston University School of Law is a top-tier law school, offering an exceptional legal education to an engaged and diverse student body, with the goal of preparing them to practice at the highest level in their chosen areas. Our top-ranked faculty has a national reputation for excellence in teaching, and focuses on ensuring that our students master both the substantive and practical skills necessary to succeed, an endeavor significantly enhanced by our low 12:1 student to faculty ratio. Our unique Transactional Law Program gives students in-depth training in essential transactional skills such as drafting, contract analysis, and structuring and negotiating contracts through both coursework and practicum exercises. Our new 1L Lawyering Lab Program and online Business Fundamentals course ensure that our students develop critical professional skills they will need to obtain and thrive in their legal careers. Our Top 10 ranked programs in intellectual property and health law, as well as our leading tax courses, ensure our graduates master these complex areas before practice. Our numerous clinics and externships, along with our Semester in Practice and study abroad programs, provide a rare depth of real world experience for our students. For those students interested in practicing within businesses, our innovative In House Counsel Fellowship facilitates graduates working at major corporations for their first year following graduation, while our unique Small and Mid-sized Firm Apprenticeship Program places graduates interested in practicing in this sector with partner firms for one year. Our Career Development and Public Service Office, staffed by former practicing attorneys (each of whom specializes in a particular employment sector - private practice, government, public interest, judicial clerkships, or business and alternative careers), works individually with students to develop personalized career exploration strategies. We have a robust on- and off-campus recruiting program, and bring a wide spectrum of employers to meet our students throughout the academic year so they can learn about varied practice areas and connect with leading employers. We also constantly monitor the shifting legal landscape to ensure both that our students are appropriately positioned for optimal employment outcomes, and that we have connections with emerging employment sectors as the professional evolves. As a result, we are ranked as one of the top law schools for elite employment outcomes (students obtaining positions with large law firms or as judicial clerks), and as a top law school for public interest law. The Law School's commitment to public service is deep and long-standing: we provide financial support to entering students through our Public Interest Scholars Program for their entire three years at the Law School. Additionally, the Law School funds post-graduate Public Service Fellowships, enabling graduates to practice in public interest organizations, and in state and local governments. We also fund Pro Bono trips for our students during Spring Break, enabling them to gain hand-on experience while addressing unmet legal needs, as well as housing a robust Pro Bono Program for our students throughout the academic year. Our graduates are judges on the highest federal and state courts, general counsel at prominent public and private businesses, leaders in the public interest community, prosecutors and public defenders, cutting edge legal academics, partners in top international, national, regional and local law firms, and leaders in Bar associations. And they are also deeply committed to our students' success, so they serve as formal and informal mentors to our students, helping them to learn about practice areas and practice settings, and assisting with their career development and job searches.
